THE "OELESTIAL EMPIRE,"  A WEEKLY RECERD OF COMMERCE, POLITICS,  LITERATURE, AND SCIENCE.  THE wide stope of this periodical, embracing, as it does, information of the most varied nature on matters connected with China and the Chiness—their language, literature, cus- toms and politics; local and foreign intelli- gence; a complete compendium of all the com- mercial news of the week, with the well-known Shanghai Statistics of Imports, and Export- tables of Produce; and summarising the literary gossip of every European meil, upon its arrival, from the best of the London and New York Papers—renders it peculiarly adapted alike for oirculation at the Out-Ports and in Japan, and for transmission to one's friends at Home.  Its large circulation at the Out-Ports renders it an excellent medium for Advertisements.  Subscription—Twelve Dollars per Annum, The Subscription for "Shanghai Couleier AND CHINA GAZETTE," Is now reduced to TWENTY DOLLARS per annum, which makes it the Cheapest Daily Paper in China, and its increasing circulation renders it particularly well adapted for Advertisements, which are inserted on very ressonable terms.  1896 Shanghai, 17th December, 1875. A WEERLY RECERD OF COMMERCE, POLITICS, LITERATURE, AND SCIENCE.  THE wide stope of this periodical, embracing, as it does, information of the most vuried nature on matters connected with China and the Chinese—their language, literature, cus- toms and politics; local and foreign intelli- gence; a complete compendium of all the com- mergial news of the week, with the well-known Shanghai Statistics of Imports, and Export- tables of Produce; and enumarising the literary gossip of every European mail, upon its arrival, from the best of the London and New York Papers—renders it peculiarly adapted alike for circulation at the Out-Ports and in Japan, and for transmission to one's friends at Home.  Its large circulation at the Out-Ports renders it an excellent medium for ADYERTISEMENTS.  Subscription—Twelve Dollaes per Annum, The Subscription for "SHANGHAI COURTER AND CHINA GAZETTE," is now reduced to TWERTI DOLLAES per annum, which makes it the Chengest Daily Paper in China, and its increasing circulation renders it particularly well adapted for ADVERTISEMENTS, which are inserted on very reasonable terms.  1856 Shanghai, 17th Decouder, 1875. On the 6th inst., at Amoy, the wife of D. A. DARLING, of a daughter.

Hongkong, January 19th, 1876. THE position assumed by Bishop RAIMONDI on the Marriage Ordinance, and the language he has employed towards the British Government, together with the action he is said to have taken with regard to education in the Colony were certainly calculated to make the members of the Legislative Council pause when his demand for $3,000 for rebuilding St. Joseph's Church was mentioned the last meeting of that body. Any but a British Government would flatly refuse to advance another cash to ecclesiaatics who have shown themselves remarkably ungrateful for all the liberality and consideration which have been extended to thom. Of course it has to be borne in mind that the church was largely used by the Catholic troops and marines, and hence Rangoon. there is some ground for appealing to the Government for help in rebuilding it. The grant might, however, not unreasonably, be two military elevens, members of the Stafford

The following is men may go for reading or quiet amusement. and left behind him books which would live pressing claims on the Colonial funds. But the score:we do not think that the Government wil refuse the grant. The Roman Catholic population has done nothing to merita rebuff; the action taken by their spiritual directors is, there is good reason to believe, deplored by the large majority of the community, and some of them have not been slow to express their regret that the Bishop should have so for overstepped the mark. Even the Hon. W. KESWICK will, no doubt, on mature consideration, see the propriety of awarding the grant in aid of the reconstruction of St. Joseph's Church. According to the census of 1873, the European and American resident population amounted to 2,520 persons, and of these 1,540 are given as Roman Catholics. No doubt the Catholic Cathedral, which is note very large building, is on occasions well filled, but it seldom hanpens that it is so full that some have to be turned away. There are plenty of gentlemen among the Catholic community. doubtless, who would be happy to officiate in such capacity. One thing must be borne in mind whenever the re-erection of the church is decided upon. The Government will require some guarantee that it is properly and substantially built, so that it may not succumb to the next typhoon. The last structure could scarcely have been as strongly built as such an edifice should be in a district so frequently visited by destructive typhoons. It is to be hoped that, if a new building be erected, it may prove more fortunate than its predecessor, reached in the ordinary way, that it was neces-In taking leave, for the present, of the subject. it may not be out of place to for this purpose. ENTERTAINMENT FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS. On Tuesday avening an entertainment was given by the Hongkong Ohristian Association, in Fletcher's Buildings, to the soldiers and sailors in the colony. There was a lirge at-tendance. The ball had been tastefully doco-rated, and presented a pleasing appearance. A substantial supper was provided at five o'clock, and about seven o'clock the after proceedings commenced.... The Right Rev. the Branor presided, and in opening the proceedings, gave an address on the work of the Association, the advantages of temperance, and Christian work in the Colony. He said-It has been stated that this entertainment has been got up by the Christian Association, and before the amusements of the evening begin I will tell you a little about that Association. About six or eight months ago a few people mot at my house for the purpose of seeing whether we could not join ourselves together for the purpose of doing some Christian work in Hongkong. It is true there are clergymen and the regular official workers, but we felt there were such a large number of people-soldiers, eailors, and others-who come to the colony and remain for so short a time that they cannot be sary some special effort should be made in their behalf, and so sometwenty of rejoined together this Christian Association has been striving to do good in a variety of wave-in one direction only, but still in two or three different ways. held in connection with the association on

But what I would like too have impressed on every man's mind is this, that the possession of the advantages of education does not necessarily make a man good. Arithmetic won't make a man bonest. There are a great many men who can make up their books very accurately indeed wno have been found lacking in Inonesty. The knowledge of geography is a good. thing indeed, but it won't make a man sober. —(Applause). And so I might go on through all the different departments, and show that i is not one of these which can raise us to the position we ought to eccupy before our maker. It is religion and nothing else that can do that not always easily quelled, it behoves the and that is the reason why the Christian Association has been formed in Hongkong .- (Applause). The vessel experionced a rough voyage, eight kegs and three cases of onnister powder were smashed, and their dangerous contents filtered through the whole of her very inflammable cargo "to the skin of the ship." By a miracle the vessel safely arrived in port, and several days were occupied in awaeping the loose powder from among the iron, matches, and paints. Before starting on the voyage the master asked the charterers to place the gunpowder in a magazine, but they refused to do so, and in a letter to the Underwriters' Association the master plaintively suggests that as the Government appear to take no cognizance of these matters, but confine their attention to frivolous and vexatious rules and regulations, the insurance offices should refuse to underwrite a single package in vessels carrying gunpowder unless the latter is placed in proper magazines. Powder is not allowed at all on emigrant ships, but it may be stowed, and apparently just as the shipper likes, as part of the ordinary cargo in passenger vessels. The master of the Allear evidently felt the danger of his position all the more scutely because of the disappearance of the Strathmore, which had just previously left

Many boxes of letters are received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with scaling war, but there is no impression of a seal; The attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully sealing such boxes with some recognisable seal, and of sending a Chitbook or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to wenther the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office; the omission of the former, as to whether part of them might not have been abstracted for the sake of the Postage Stamps. It is not generally possible to count the letters sent in sealed boxes (except where there are only three or four) and therefore the Post Office receipt to such an entry as, "47 for London, 15 for Onleutta, 3 for Penang, 5 for Singapore," must be taken to mean no more IN Order to meet the wishes of the Native | than what is stated, viz., that one box was duly

- ON THE DOOR-STEP. We were sitting on the door-stepremember it so well; Save where the moonlight fell With its wary, soft brown hair,
- She was half in shadow hidden And on the dear head resting, Made more than ever levely The face I thought so fair, I know we talked but little.
- And at last, beneath the stone, We heard the cricket chirping . So clearly all alone, Till my heart had mustered courage To tell her, then and there, How for her aweet sake truly. Twould all things do and dare.
- Then came the soft, shy dunwer, . As her shining eyes drooped low, 'My heart is mine no longer. "Twas yielded long ago !"
- And even as also doomed me To misery and pain, The soft cheeks filled with dimples, Gathering o'er and o'er again. How well I now remember - That, turning fast away, I would not heed the whisper. That softly hade me stay. . Till, at the low gate turning, Her face once more to see, I saw the tear drops shining.
  In the eyes that followed me.
- Ah! then, with heart fast beating, To her side I turned again, -"Oh! tell me, Madge, my darling, Has my love been all in vain? You do not love mother? Your words were only play? Look up, and answer truly.-Modge, must I go away?"
- Betraved the tears still shiping -Like dew-drops soft and bright. " My heart is mine no lenrer: I have given it, tis true: Why could you not have waited?

Because ah! I meant von!"

THE LENGTH OF LIFE Reasoning from analogy, we find it stated in "Health Maxims," men ought to live a century, as it seems to be a general law in the animal creation that life should be five times the period required for growth. Mary of the insect tribes mature and fructify in ar hour and die before the close of day. A dog grows for two years and lives eight; an ox grows for four years and lives sixteen: horse grows for five years and lives twentyfive; a camel grows for eight years and lives forty: a man grows for twenty-years and should live to one hundred.

A VISIT TO THE SMOULDERING FIRES OF ICELAND.

DYNGJUFJOLL. About 3 p.m. we began to wind round the east, side of the outer range, up ridges and down hollows, riding the latter and walking the former, with an occasional tow up by a horse's tail where it was very heavy We had been, and were still ascending gradually, but very stendily, and between four and five o'clock a shout from one of the guides auconneed water, to which we skurried off briskly. It was only small streamlets of the new snow of Jugo melted by the sun, and was rapidly absorbed by the sand, but it was an unexpected comfort to man and beast. Between seven and eight we rounded the base of the outer ring of the second or great range of mountains, and found them powdered with pumico dust, with large pieces of punice lying here and there, as they had been projected from the fire in the central This increased until, after a toilsome climb up the old snow covered with small pumice, we found ourselves at 4 p.m. on the level valley, about half a mile wide, which separates the outer ring of mountains from the central range, and which appeared to extend a long way round to the north and

The horses were now of no further use, so they were bobbled and had their supper of hay. After our own supper (we had stopped only once before for food) we surveyed the scene and considered what was next to be done. I assumed that we were at an elevation of 1,500 to 2,000 feet, but found from Mr. Watta it was 4,000 feet above the sea level. Half a mile from us was the base of the mountain, whose summit was at least 1,000 feet high. Over it hung the huge dense cloud of grevish smoke ascending very slowly-which we had seen at intervals for four days at 80 or 90 miles distance. No fire was visible, and no new lave, but purice, pumice covering everything, in size from impalpable powder to pieces 4 and 5 feet long, 3 broad, and 3 deep.

The valley in which we were was continued eastwards, descending and widening for many first time a manly "I will" is said, the first miles, till closed by another range of mountains across it, with a great snowy peak bove, which was what the guides called Klofa Jokull." Looking at the map, I think this must have been an advanced post of that enormous range, a part of "Vatna Jokult," a solitary huge peak, towerabove the other mountains, and being permanently snow-covered, was entitled to rank as a Jokull. This valley and the mountains on each side for many miles were covered his head and prospered, if, instead of putting off his resolutions of amendment and industry, he had made a beginning. A beginming, and a good beginning, too, is accessary. The first werd pulled up in the garden, the seed put in the ground, the first pound put in the savings bank, mile travelled in a journey, are all very important things. They m ke a beginning; and thereby a hope, a promise, and assurance is held out that you are in earnest in what you have undertaken.

MAKE A BEGINNING. How many a poor, idle, hesitating, erring outcast is now creeping, crarling his way through the world, who might have held up

THE MACE. Connected with our legislative assemblies there are certain odd forms of proceeding, of which it may be presumed that very few but I determined to attempt the ascent of the those acquainted with the details of Parliamentary business have any notion. Many persons, for instance, may have seen, while standing in the lobby of the House of Commons, the Speaker in his robes enter, preceded by a gentleman with a bag-wig and a sword by his side, carrying on his shoulder between - that place and Boulogne. He twelve feet, thrown together like the rubbish a heavy gilt club, surmounted by a crown in short, a mace; but few people are cognisant how important this toy is to the legislative duties of their representatives. Be it known. then, that without it the House of Commons cavalry, and sailed about the same time. At by melted snow, rendered the loose lava does not exist, and that it is as essential that the mace should be present at the deliberations of our senate, as that Mr. Speaker should be there himself: without a Speaker the House never proceeds to business, and without his mace the Speaker cannot take the chair. At the commencement of new Parliament, and before the election of the Speaker, this valuable emblem the House, and the clerk of the table presides during the election; but no sooner is the Speaker elected, than it is drawn from its hiding-place and deposited on the table, taken ill, sent to tell the House by the clerk at the table, that he could not take the him, ashamed, most likely, of their previous The younger and lighter of the guides (the chair.
